This film makes a crescent count down until the demystification of a bridge that both connects and separates one country from another. Portugal and Spain, distant by fragments of their memories, images, objects, voices and ruins. Time runs out... An anxiety floats above the border and also a strength of believing that it is possible to change some things until the very last minute of our cross-over. In a world of contradictions, inequalities remain. Surprising stories exist in almost forgotten lands. We are standing before a jigsaw puzzle organized into a map of ideas and memories.
